INTRODUCTION

INTRODUCTION

This compilation brings together for convenient and comparable reference the vote cast in the various States in Presidential and Congressional elections from 1928 through 1944. State summaries are presented for each election year for major political parties, and the relative vote for these parties is shown as percentages of the total vote cast for each type of office. For the two most recent elections for Presidential electors (1944 and 1940) and for Senators (1944 and 1942), the data are shown by counties; and for the two most recent elections for Representatives in Congress (1944 and 1942), the data are shown by Congressional districts.

ELECTIONS AND POLITICAL PARTIES

The Congressional votes for Senators and Representatives are those cast in regular elections to fill those offices in which the term is about to expire; special elections to fill vacancies in unexpired terms are therefore not included. The count used is that of valid ballots cast for candidates for a particular office and excludes spoiled and blank ballots.

The emphasis is on votes cast for political parties rather than for particular candidates. The vote for candidates endorsed by more than one political party is segregated whenever possible, and notations are made in each table to indicate endorsements. In States in which endorsement or double nomination occurred, the component party votes may be segregated only in Connecticut, New York, and from 1934 on in Pennsylvania. In Connecticut and Pennsylvania, the endorsing votes have been indicated in footnotes to the tables because the numbers are small and did not affect the outcome. In New York State, endorsing party votes have been substantial enough to affect the election results, as is evident in the following summary of the vote for Presidential electors in that State in 1944:

Total for Democratic electors.....	3,304,238
Democratic.....	2,478,598
American Labor....	496,405
Liberal.....	329,235
Republican electors.....	2,987,647
Industrial Government electors.....	14,352
Socialist electors.....	10,553

Because of this effect on the results, the total vote in New York for the Democratic candidates in 1940 and 1944, including votes of endorsing parties, is presented by individual counties in separate tables—for Presidential electors in table 10 and for United States Senator in table 11.

In California and Massachusetts, and in Pennsylvania from 1928 through 1932, the form of the ballot or the reporting practices prevent a specific determination of the actual voting strength of nominating and endorsing parties. For those States, the total vote of a candidate having a party nomination or endorsement in addition to that of his own party is shown in the tables in the space of the candidate's party.

The California arrangement whereby a candidate may be nominated in the primary election of another party, provided he wins his own party nomination, renders it impossible to determine the relative voting strength of the respective parties for any office with multi-party nomination. The effect of reporting the total vote of a candidate having a double nomination is apparent from a comparison of the vote for Representative in Congress and that for Presidential electors in the tenth California Congressional district—composed of Kern, Kings, and Tulare counties—in 1944:

Vote for Representative in Congress:
Democratic candidate nominated by Democratic and Republican primaries.....	60,001
Other candidate.....	80
Vote for Presidential electors:
Democratic.....	49,017
Republican.....	40,203
Other.....	539

Votes of all minor parties are grouped under the heading of "other," although in tables 7, 8, and 9, in which county or Congressional district detail is presented, the State total of "other" is given for specific minor parties in footnotes. Where the minor party vote is available for the State total, and not by county, it is included in the State totals and in the summary table. Inasmuch as the "other party" vote often differs in character from State to State in each election, it is not summarized for the Nation.

The percentages shown in tables 2, 4, 6, 7, 8, 10, and 11 for the major parties are computed on the basis of the total vote cast including that of minor parties. Because the percentages for the minor parties are omitted, the percentages shown for the Democratic and Republican parties may not add to 100.

The State totals shown in the tables which give county data are official State totals, although in some instances these figures do not agree with the sum of the votes reported for all counties. Not all of these differences could be eliminated; some might have resulted from typographical errors in the original reports and others from recounts and recanvases after an official total had been published. Effort was made to account for and to correct differences. Those which could not be reconciled are indicated in the tables.

VOTE FOR PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS

The historical summary of votes cast for Presidential electors, 1928 through 1944, is shown by States in table 1, and the percent of that vote for each of the two major parties is shown in table 2. Table 7 gives the vote for Presidential electors in 1940 and 1944 by counties.

Divergent practices exist among the States as to the manner of placing the names of candidates for Presidential electors on the ballot. In some States the ballot is so arranged that a single figure is obtained for the party vote because the voter marks his ballot only once to elect the entire list of his party's electoral candidates. In many other States the vote is cast for individual electoral candidates. In the latter case, the Presidential election vote, shown herein by State and county for each party, is that cast for the electoral candidate receiving the highest State-wide vote of his party. A party's reported electoral vote in any one county, therefore, may be less than the vote of the electoral candidate who received the highest vote in that county.

SENATORIAL ELECTION VOTE

Because United States Senators are elected for six-year overlapping terms, 32 every two years, tables 3, 4, and 8 show no votes in the years in which no regular Senatorial election is held. As indicated heretofore, Senatorial elections to fill vacancies in unexpired terms are not included.

REPRESENTATIVE ELECTION VOTE

The historical summary, by States, of the vote for members of the House of Representatives from 1928 through 1944 is found in tables 5 and 6. For the last two elections the vote cast for Representatives is presented in table 9 by Congressional district, except for the small number of cases in which all of a State's Representatives are elected from the State at large. Where all Representatives are elected from districts, the State total is the sum of the votes cast in districts. Where all are elected at large, the State party total shown is the vote received by the candidate of each party who received the highest vote; if some Representatives are elected by districts and others by the State at large, the sum of the votes cast in the districts is used for the State total.

As a result of the redistricting and renumbering of districts in Florida, New York, and Pennsylvania, the vote cast in individual districts was not comparable as between 1942 and 1944. Redistricting changes are shown in table 9 by a heavy line separating the years between which the redistricting took place and by maps on pages 167, 168, and 169. For a description of redistricting, see the reports for 1942 and 1944 of the Clerk of the United States House of Representatives, Regulations of the Legislatures of Certain States Prescribing Congressional Districts; see also the maps in the Congressional Directory for appropriate years. To make possible voting comparisons for old and new Congressional districts in Florida, New York, and Pennsylvania, the vote cast in 1942 and 1944 is shown by county in table 12.

SOURCES

The information on the Presidential and Senatorial elections was obtained principally from such official State documents or records as yearbooks and published or unpublished election returns, supplemented by correspondence with Secretaries of State and State election and canvassing boards and, in a few instances, by the collection of certain data at State capitals by Census Bureau representatives. For elections to the United States House of Representatives the district vote was obtained from the reports of the Clerk of the House of Representatives, Statistics of the Congressional Election, published after each election from 1928 through 1944, and from official State sources. A list of sources by States is given in the bibliography at the end of this report.

Grateful acknowledgment is made of the cooperation of the many State officials who so generously supplied documents and other information.

Anna A. Meck had major responsibility for detail of compilation of the data in this report.

¹ In this State a person may become the candidate of one or more parties for the same office. Inasmuch as the votes cast by voters of the various parties for the same candidate are not segregable, the total vote is shown in the space of the party or which the candidate is a member.

² Total vote received; candidate won one or more party nominations.

³ Included in "other" are 758 Union votes cast in endorsement of the Republican candidate.

⁴ Included in "other" are 463,785 American Labor and 325,056 Liberal votes cast in endorsement of the Democratic candidate.

⁵ Included in "other" are 381,559 American Labor votes cast in endorsement of the Democratic candidate.

⁶ Included in "other" are 390,110 American Labor votes cast in endorsement of the Democratic candidate and 11,821 Independent Progressive votes cast in endorsement of the Republican candidate.

⁷ Included in "other" are 10,307 Royal Oak, and 74 Non-Partisan votes cast in endorsement of the Democratic candidate.

⁸ Does not include the vote cast in Chesterfield county.

¹ In some districts one or the other of the major parties had no candidates.

² No representatives were elected from districts, but more than one was elected from the State at large in Arizona, and New Mexico in 1942 and 1944; North Dakota, 1932 to 1944 inclusive; Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, and Virginia in 1932. In these States, each total is the sum of the votes cast for that candidate of each party receiving the highest vote.

³ In this State a person may become the candidate of one or more parties for the same office. Inasmuch as the votes cast by the voters of the various parties for the same candidate are not segregable, the vote is shown in the space of the party of which the candidate is a member.

⁴ Vote of minor parties for these candidates is included in "other".

California

² The candidate, member of the Republican party, won the nomination of both the Democratic and Republican parties. Inasmuch as the votes cast by the voters of the various parties for the same candidate are not segregated, the total vote is shown in the space of the party of which the candidate is a member.

³ Consists of Prohibition 366,044, Communist 97,478, and 11,444 votes for independent candidates.

TABLE 8.—VOTE CAST IN ELECTIONS TO THE U. S. SENATE, BY MAJOR POLITICAL PARTY, BY STATE, AND BY COUNTY: 1944, 1942, AND 1940—Continued

Alabama

*Communist votes.

Arizona

*Election of 2 members from the State at large precludes an exact comparison of votes. The totals as shown are the sums of the votes cast for that candidate of each party receiving the highest vote.

*Prohibition vote.

*Communist vote.

California

*California law permits a person to become a candidate of one or more parties by filing in the respective primaries. Thus, it is possible for a candidate to win the nomination of parties other than his own. Inasmuch as the votes cast by the voters of the various parties for same candidate are not segregable, the total vote is shown in the space of party of which the candidate is a member; see footnotes 4 to 7.

*Consists of Prohibition 6,309, and scattered 2,557.

*Consists of Prohibition 87,823, Communist 26,208, Townsend 9,843, vote for 4 independent candidates 2,755, and scattered 2,423.

*The candidate, member of the Democratic party, won the nomination of both the Democratic and Republican parties; see footnote 1.

*The candidate, member of the Republican party, won the nomination of the Democratic, Republican, and Townsend parties; see footnote 1.

*The candidate, member of the Republican party, won the nomination of the Democratic and Republican parties; see footnote 1.

*The candidate, member of the Prohibition party, won the nomination of the Prohibition and Republican parties; see footnote 1.

*Includes 40,789 Prohibition-Republican votes.
